

LI HUNG CHANG IS SHADY.

IS PRACTICALLY HELD AS HOSTAGE.

Chinese Are Fortifying All the Rivers in Which Warships May Go—The Latest Impression in Europe is That Though a Part of the Foreigners May Have Been Spared, the Allies Should Act Upon the Worst News.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, July 26.—While the latest impressions derived from an array of conflicting telegrams from the far east, is that a portion of the foreign colony may have escaped slaughter until a recent date, the general consensus of opinion of Europe seems to continue to favor the acceptance of the worst news and to advocate prompt action thereon. The contention is that the only possible way of obtaining the truth definitely is by the allied commanders carrying the inquiry to Peking.

A Shanghai dispatch says that torpedoes are being laid by the Chinese in all the principal rivers of the empire accessible to warship. This preparation for a bitter defensive war is particularly active at Canton and on the Yang Tse river. The laying of torpedoes at this time is significant, as British and Federal warships are preparing to ascend the stream. It is also remarked that this warlike act is coincident with the visit to Shanghai of Li Hung Chang. Intensified suspicion is felt of the old statesman's purposes by Europeans.

One dispatch from Shanghai goes so far as to say that Li Hung Chang is practically held a hostage there pending his promised proof of the safety of the ministers at Peking. He has said that he would get word that they are safe in five days. He has been stopping with prominent Chinamen in the Chinese district, but today retired to the arsenal, evidently feeling safer there.

RUSSIANS FLEET WILL FIRE ON COAST TOWNS.

London, July 26.—A St. Petersburg dispatch says that the commanding officer of the Russian squadron in China waters has received as precise instructions to bombard the Chinese coast towns immediately on receipt of confirmation of the report of the massacre at Peking.

UNABLE TO PROTECT FOREIGNERS.

London, July 26.—In a dispatch from Hong-Kong the Governor of Hainan island has informed the consuls at Hong-Kong that he is unable any longer to protect foreigners.

BRITISH BASE AT WEI-HAI-WEI.

Shanghai, July 25.—A British base has been established at Wei-Hai-Wei, whither General Gaseloo has gone. The date of the departure of British troops from Taku is uncertain. The plan for a combined advance to Peking is also undecided, there being apparently some question as to whether or not a part of the forces will land at Shanhaikwan.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

Mr. Wharton Appointed Corresponding Member of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Lee G. Wharton has been appointed corresponding member of the executive committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of North Carolina. This is a new feature of Y. M. C. A. work and an important one. It is the special duty of corresponding members to notify the State secretary whenever a young man leaves his town for some other point in this other States.

State Secretary Knebel, who is in the city, stated today that it was the aim of the executive committee to appoint a corresponding member in every town and village in North Carolina. The critical time in the average young man's life is the first two or three months in a strange community, and the Y. M. C. A. has realized this.

HIGH POINT LABORERS FOOLED.

Some of Them Left for Charleston Under Inducements of Fabulous Wages—Rain Broke up Davis and Meekins' Meeting. Correspondence of the Telegram.

High Point, July 26.—Mrs. O. N. Richardson returned last night from Greensboro. She was accompanied by her brother, Mr. Pleasant.

Miss Ella May of Rome, Ga., who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. H. C. Field, returned home last night to the regret of her host of friends and admirers here.

The seven-month's old child of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Lambuth died Tuesday and was buried yesterday.

C. W. Warden, of Staunton, Va., was here last night.

F. S. Spruill, of Louisburg, spent yesterday here on business.

W. W. Mills, a prominent citizen of Carthage was a visitor here yesterday.

Several days ago there came a man here from Charleston to get up hands for a wood ware establishment there. Fabulous prices were offered and about one dozen bit at the bait thrown out. Most of whom are now writing for money to bear their expenses back home. But before the first immigration of laborers from here had been heard from, the agent had secured eight or ten more hands and had them at the depot ready for transportation, except their tickets, which the boss man in Charleston had wired would be ready for them. After telegraphing several times about the matter, a message was received late in the afternoon saying enough hands had been secured for the present and would wire when the hands here could be given employment. The agent of the concern is of the opinion that the whole scheme is a fake, and the would be employees think the same thing of course. Several of the men who intended going left good jobs and are now out of employment. The next time such an offer is presented to the working people here they will perhaps consider the matter before acting.

Will H. Matthews came up from Greensboro last evening.

Prof. Geo. H. Crowell left yesterday for a visit to his old home near Albemarle.

J. C. Meekins, who with C. P. Davis, of this county, is accused by the Mill News, a newspaper published in Charlotte, of being engaged by the Republican party to work against the amendment in the labor unions of this State, was billed to speak here last night in the Doubterstown part of the city, but on account of rain the engagement had to be cancelled. "The Lord is always on the side of right," said one prominent Democrat last night, "for he sent the rain just at the time that fellow was to speak against the amendment and the Democratic party in falsifying terms." However this may be, a storm arose at the time the speaking was to have commenced and rain came pouring down, dispersing the few people who had congregated.

PLANS DECIDED UPON

The Fair Association at Work on the Building and Grand Stand.

The executive committee of the Central Carolina Fair Association held a meeting last night and discussed the plans of the buildings, grand stand, etc. It was decided to erect one large two story building, 60 by 150 feet, for the exhibits. Their idea is to confine most of the exhibits to one building, the machinery and other heavy exhibits being on the first floor, and the second floor being reserved for the lighter exhibits. A grand stand, with a seating capacity of about 1,500, will be built. A number of stalls will also be built for the horses and cattle.

The awarding of the contracts was left to the committee on track and buildings.

The stockholders of the Association have their hearts in the enterprise and propose to keep things moving until they achieve success. They deserve the hearty cooperation and sympathy of all the citizens of Greensboro.

NEW ORLEANS RIOT.

NEGROES KILLED AND WOUNDED

MOB RUNS WILD ALL LAST NIGHT.

The Disturbance Which Began Tuesday Results in a Number of Deaths—Many Wounded—The City in the Greatest Excitement—The Acting Mayor Calls on Good Citizens to Preserve the Peace.

By Wire to the Telegram.

New Orleans, July 26.—Mobs ran riot all last night and up to three o'clock this morning hunting negroes. Such as fell into the hands of the mob were either killed or so badly wounded that they were left for dead.

The police were powerless, for as fast as they apparently dispersed a crowd in one section, it re-formed and moved to some other point.

The mobs were composed almost entirely of young men. There were no leaders, but they acted by a common impulse.

The crowd listened to a speech by an unknown man on Morrison Square and then started out to waylay negroes. A Pullman car porter by the name of Ruffin was cut and shot. Another Pullman porter named Saunders was stabbed to death. A twelve-year-old boy was shot in the leg, and a negro watchman by the name of Morris was shot twice in the back and seriously wounded. Baptist File, 75 years old, was shot almost to death. An unknown negro was beaten and left for dead. A porter on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad was chased, but was protected in the custom house. The mob was scared away from this place by rifles.

About daylight the mob waylaid a crowd of negroes going to work. The negroes were fired upon as they ran. The driver of a baker's wagon was shot in his leg as he was making his rounds, and William Armstrong was shot in his thigh as he was crossing Claiborne bridge.

Acting Mayor Mable issued a proclamation at 11 o'clock this morning calling upon the good citizens to keep the peace.

The trouble which caused the mob's existence was in itself a trifling incident, and occurred Tuesday.

Two suspicious negroes were hanging around a quiet neighborhood and somebody took the precaution to inform the police. Several officers went to the scene, and instead of making explanations or going to jail, the negroes showed fight. Pistols were soon in play, and officer Mora was seriously shot. One of the negroes was arrested, but Robert Charles, who did the shooting, said to be a desperate burglar and ex-convict, got away, although wounded. The police organized a pursuing party and succeeded in locating the fugitive. Capt. John T. Day, commanding the precinct, led a posse of police to a shanty and tried to reach the refuge by a dark alley leading to it. They carried lanterns and were easily distinguished, and when they got close enough Charles opened fire with a Winchester, killing Capt. Day and keeping up the fusillade until the captain had five wounds in him.

A negro opened a door of an adjoining room and told the police to jump in, as Charles had rifles and ammunition and an impregnable position. They obeyed, thinking to hold Charles in his quarters until help or daylight came. Officer Lamb was the last of the three survivors to reach shelter, after emptying his revolver in the direction of the negro, and Charles reached out and dropped him with a bullet behind the ear.

Nearly an hour elapsed before re-enforcements came, and these were placed around the block to prevent escape. It was then discovered that Charles had already left the room, though a shot at the pickets told that he was in the neighborhood. The two dead policemen were removed, and a systematic search organized, but no trace of the fugitive was found. Police armed with rifles and citizens similarly equipped and a borrowed bloodhound kept up the quest, and had Charles been sighted he would have been shot to pieces.

GAVE HIM A DUCKING.

Red Shirts in Wilmington Thought it No Harm to Give Bro. King a Bath—Wanted Backing in Giving Butler a Thashing. Special to the Raleigh Post.

Wilmington, N. C., July 25.—Jack King, an unlicensed Baptist preacher, or exhorter, was taken by a party of red-shirts in the Fifth ward of this city last night and given a ducking in a horse fountain, corner of Fifth and Castle streets. He was charged with having distributed anti-amendment and Populist campaign literature in that ward Monday for Senator Marion Butler. A promise was exacted from King that he would not do so any more. He went before Justice of the Peace J. J. Fowler this morning and caused the arrest of two of the red-shirts, Thomas M. Simmons and William Branch, on a charge of assault and battery. The justice said evidence showed the accused to be guilty and asked them what they had to say for themselves. Simmons said that he thought it no crime to wash a dirty henchman of Butler's like King was. King addressed the court, saying he thought that the red-shirts did not realize what they did and asked that the court inflict no punishment.

It is thought that King asked the court's leniency for fear of retaliation. In fact, had he persisted in the prosecution the red-shirts would have made it too warm for him to stay in town.

Red-shirts up the Wilmington and Weldon railroad today were on the lookout for Senator Marion Butler, who was advertised to speak at Willard, a few miles from Rose Hill, where the registrar trial demonstration was yesterday. He did not come, however, but Senator R. B. Davis, secretary of the State Populist executive committee, did, and spoke to about 75 Populists. At Warsaw an especially large crowd of red-shirts were waiting for Butler and telegrams were received in Wilmington asking if white men here would back them up giving Butler a thrashing. They at once advised that they would. When Davis was found on the train instead of Butler their wrath was turned against him, and it was only by the strongest efforts of conservative men that they were restrained from maltreating Davis.

MISSIONARIES TO GO TO SHANGHAI.

A General Uprising Expected—Li Hung Promises to Show up the Envoys if Troops Are Not Sent to Peking.

London, July 26.—The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Express, telegraphing yesterday, says: "A general uprising throughout China is now regarded as so absolutely certain that all the missionaries throughout the empire have been ordered to take refuge without delay either at Shanghai or Hong Kong. Refugees are beginning to arrive from all points in the most pitiable condition."

As the result of a constant correspondence with the governor of Shan Tung, Li Hung Chang this afternoon announced that the imperial government was prepared at any moment to give a safe convoy to the members of the foreign legations from Peking to Tien-Tsin provided a guarantee were given that no advance would be made upon the capital and that all matters in dispute between China and the powers would be made the subject of friendly negotiations. In the same communication to the consuls Earl Li stated that the imperial government had submitted to the powers a statement of its position, declaring that it had suffered greatly by recent events, but desired not only to suppress rebellion, but also to remove the causes of the hostility of the foreign powers. Therefore, he hoped that the offer to escort the foreigners to Tien-Tsin would be regarded as an earnest desire of the Chinese government for the renewal of friendly relations. The consuls replied that no basis for friendly negotiations was possible until proof was at hand that the ministers there were still living.

A NEW GUESSING PROCESS.

A Gentleman is going to divide the whole by a part and thus get our population.

The guessing goes merrily on. It is a free for all contest. One man thinks that by striking an average the right figures will be had. Another one in some unaccountable way says that if you will add up Jimtown, then subtract and divide by the result you'll get the proper figures. He was so confident that this was correct he wanted his name put right down as the winner and the paper started to him.

NO CHECK ON NEELEY.

Stole Whatever He Wanted to—The Adjutant General's Report.

Washington, July 25.—The Adjutant General has made public the report of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, who investigated the postal frauds. Mr. Bristow finds that Neeley's embezzlements aggregated at least $131,713, and he says he was justified in recommending the removal of Director General Rathbone. Whether or not the latter was guilty with Neeley in the embezzlements, he says, there can be no doubt that in the matter of unauthorized per diem allowances, personal expenditures and warrants cashed and unaccounted for he unlawfully appropriated to his own use money from the Cuban revenues, and for this Mr. Bristow says he believes Mr. Rathbone should be required to answer. The report says there was no check whatever on Neeley's transactions. From the accounts examined the report says the minimum of Neeley's embezzlements may be summarized as follows:

Shortages as shown by his own records, $30,600; excess of credit by destruction of surcharged stamps definitely ascertained, $101,113; total, $131,713. This will be increased by the discovery of additional sales of surcharged stamps, but will not exceed $150,000 in the aggregate.

BUTLER'S WHOLE SCHEME FAILED.

Holton Butler's Shadow—Three Tickets Put Out by the Fusionists—What Has Become of Pritchard?

Special Correspondence of the Telegram.

Raleigh, July 26.—Democratic State Chairman Simmons says there is no doubt that the Populists have had three different tickets printed—straight Republican, straight Populists and Fusion. One of the Republican judicial tickets was seen last night. On it are the names of J. A. Hendricks of the 10th and J. W. Bowman of the 12th district for Superior Court judges.

The Populists in their State convention declared that the franchise amendment was not a party issue. Senator Butler has had his ticket printed and is sending them out. What people want to know is, is he sending out to his Populists both amendment and anti-amendment tickets so as to give them their choice?

How many Populists are there in North Carolina? Not over 8,000 is the estimate of the Democratic State Chairman. Senator Butler thought early in the summer that he could rally all the men who were Populists in 1894, when there were between 50,000 and 60,000. In 1896 they fell away to about 30,000 and in 1898 to say 15,000. Butler's idea was no doubt that with 60,000 Populists he could overawe Democrats in rural districts. But he could not muster. The few Populists left to him will nearly all go into the Republican party, as one leg and a good deal of the body is over the fence now.

The Fusionists had in May planned a desperate game to capture the State and this being to have every registrar of election mandamus and if he stuck to his post jailed and thus prevent any registration and as a consequence any election. But the June session of the Legislature knocked this plan into a cocked hat. A Republican writes that the above was the plan.

Republicans are quite openly saying that their State Chairman Holton, who is by the way nothing more than a figure-head has turned over eastern North Carolina to Senator Butler. Holton is now here all the time and he is literally Butler's shadow, and gives up entirely to the Populist. Holton used to swear at Gov. Russell for being under Populist control and completely dominated by Butler, and now it is Gov. Russell's time to laugh at him.

As stated, a large portion of the negroes have not registered and hence cannot register in the August election. It is the belief of a number of well informed Democrats that a great number of those who have registered will not vote.

People are asking what has become of Senator Pritchard in this very lively campaign. His speaking has been done mainly in his home section, in the Blue Ridge region. Some persons ask whether after putting the other Federal officials to the front he has retired to the background.

Harry Tracy, one of the Texas Populists who is now stumping this State against the franchise amendment, organized the Farmers' Alliance in North Carolina ten years ago.

M. H. H. Caldwell, who two years ago was the populist nominee for Congress against Klutz, Democrat, in the Seventh district, is now campaigning with Klutz, and both are working hard for the franchise amendment and the Democratic ticket.

Yesterday Senator Butler refused to acknowledge that he and Holton had agreed on a ticket. Holton admitted one had been agreed on but would not tell who was on it.

Dr. John and the Sisters.

Just before the board adjourned last Tuesday Bro. John B. Brewer arose and solemnly read the following resolution, which was unanimously passed, and on motion of Bro. R. W. Brooks, was ordered printed in Charity and Children: "Whereas, the worthy president of this board (Dr. John Mitchell) still resists the charms of the sisters, resolved that we sincerely hope some one of them may yet be able to capture his affections, knowing as we do his capacity for making her life brighter and happier, we hope for many years to come." Secretary Thomas Carriek put the motion, and the voting was exceedingly hearty.

Reports from Mooresville indicate that Ransom had a crowd of 5,000 to hear him yesterday. In the procession was a float containing twenty-five ladies dressed in spotless white who accompanied Gen. Ransom to the speakers stand. After the speaking a sumptuous barbecue was served to the great concourse of people.

In the Anderson Statesville game yesterday afternoon Anderson won by a score of 7 to 1. This gives Anderson two games out of the series of three.

Why the Curb Disappeared.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

I noticed in Tuesday's Record that Mr. Newcomb had an advertisement about some curb which had been removed from his lot corner of North Elm and Price streets. I wish to say in explanation that I sold Mr. Newcomb this curb almost a year ago, with the understanding that it was to be a cash sale. Though the bill has been presented a great many times, up to date I have only been able to collect seventy-five cents of the amount. I needed some stone for sills for the foundation of the Episcopal church (also on corner of North Elm and Price streets.) Some of the curb there would just fill the bill, and knowing that I could replace it from stock I have on hand any time Mr. Newcomb was ready to use it, did not think it necessary to say anything about it.

S. S. S. is the only safe and infallible cure for this disease, the only antidote for this specific poison. It cures the worst cases thoroughly and permanently.

My Condition Could Have Been No Worse.

In the fall of 1897 I contracted Blood Poison. I tried three doctors, but their treatment did me no good; I was getting worse all the time; my hair came out, ulcers appeared in my throat and mouth, my body was almost covered with copper colored spots and offensive sores. I suffered severely from rheumatic pains in my shoulders and arms. My condition could have been no worse, only those afflicted as I was can understand my sufferings. I had about lost all hope of ever being well again when I decided to try S. S. S., but must confess I had little faith left in any medicine. After taking the third bottle I noticed a change in my condition. This was truly encouraging, and I determined to give S. S. S. a thorough trial. From that time on the improvement was rapid; S. S. S. seemed to have the disease completely under control; the sores and ulcers healed and I was soon free from all signs of the disorder; I have been strong and healthy ever since.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES.

By the unanimous vote of the national committee of the national (gold standard) Democracy at Indianapolis yesterday afternoon, the scheme of fusion with the anti-imperialistic movement was defeated.

Senator Pritchard yesterday recommended the appointment of Daniel A. Thompson, of Charlotte, as a member of the industrial commission, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Smythe, of South Carolina, which will take effect September 1st.

The civil service commission yesterday acknowledged receipt of Chairman Simmons' letter.

Trouble exists between M. V. Powell, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, and H. B. Perham, secretary of the grand division of that order. The trouble grows out of the Southern Railway strike, which was directed from Atlanta by Mr. Powell and copies of the correspondence between the two officials have been sent to all members of the order. Secretary Perham charges that the Southern strike was badly managed and that the order suffered greatly in prestige because of the failure. He alleges that the president has caused to be withdrawn from the treasury practically all the funds of the order.

J. L. Banner shot and killed Reuben Burleson at Montezuma, N. C., Monday night. Burleson had been drinking all the day and came into Banner's store in the evening and threatened to kill him, but Banner succeeded in getting some of his friends to take Burleson away after Burleson had fired one shot at him while in the house. After Banner had retired in his room over the store, Burleson came back and demanded that he be admitted, and when Banner refused to open the door, he burst it open and went in, firing on Banner as fast as possible. When Banner saw there was no chance to escape, he drew his pistol and shot him three times, all the shots taking effect, Burleson dying instantly.

Mr. Avery Williams and son were struck and instantly killed by lightning at Carpenter's Mill, about three miles from Rutherfordton yesterday afternoon. They were both excellent farmers and good men, and their death is a shock to the people in that community.

The annual reunion of the Anson Camp Confederate Veterans will be held at Wadesboro tomorrow. Gen. M. W. Ransom has been invited to speak on the occasion and has accepted. After the speaking there will be a dinner served for the veterans. This reunion promises to be one of the best attended of any the camp has held.

The fifth annual Southern Conference of the Epworth League opened its five-day session in the auditorium at Exposition Park at Atlanta yesterday. The scene presented in the vast building, with its innumerable electric lights gleaming upon the emblematic decorations of white and yellow on pillar, rafter and wall, was beautiful and inspiring. Half of the audience were the ribbon and monogram badge of the Southern Leaguers. Upon the platform appeared many of the ablest and best known men in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, flanked by Prof. Hemphill's chorus of singers.

At the courthouse in Charlotte last night Hon. R. B. Glenn, of Winston, made a two-hours' speech on the amendment. His audience was large, enthusiastic and frequently interrupted him with applause. In spite of his hard campaigning recently the speaker was at his best and held the close attention of his hearers throughout his speech.

ON THE PLAINS.

White Sheeted Bucks and the Man With the Green Face.

Perhaps the most theatrical bit of audacity exhibited by the Sioux during their last war was that of a young Brule who rode into Pine Ridge about a week before the battle of Wounded Knee. It was late in the morning and the soldiers were cooking their noon meal when a young buck astride a splendid pony appeared at the head of a trail which led past General Brooke's headquarters and the long stretch of tents of the Second Infantry and Ninth cavalry. The rider was robed in a white sheet which was tightly clutched with one hand at the breast. His face was painted a hideous green, a war color of the Sioux, as were the haunches of his horse. An eagle feather was in the animal's tail and two more plumes were in the warrior's hair.

The Indian police, under command of Seavards, were about to open fire on the rider, but were held in check by an officer who did not appreciate the significance of the Brule's garb and paint. With utter contempt for everything about him the rider passed between two lines of soldiers and a dozen batteries of Hotchkiss guns until he reached the end of the road. Then he turned his horse eastward and rode into the door of Post Trader Assay's store. Taking a careful survey of the coffee coolers who were squated on the floor he returned to the road and with a yell started at breakneck pace for the buttes.

The soldiers by this time were called to arms and started in pursuit of the dare-devil who was already half way up the hill leading to what was afterward to be the bloody field of the mission. With a cry of defiance the white-sheeted buck whisked a carbine from beneath the folds of his cloak and fired at the soldiers who were already bazing away at the green-faced horseman. The single bullet pierced the leg of two members of the Second Infantry and before the negro cavalrymen could take up the chase the Indian was well out of range. It was learned later that the Brule came to the agency for the purpose of killing American Horse, who had been active in keeping his tribesmen from joining in the ghost dances.

NO PEACE EXCEPT THROUGH WAR.

This is What Viceroy Tak Su Says—The Viceroy is Commanded to Get Ready.

London, July 26, 4. a. m.—The signs of unrest in the southern Chinese provinces are coincident with Li Hung Chang's presence in Shanghai. They are supposed to be the beginning of a general declaration against foreigners. In this connection the Canton correspondent of the The Telegraph, wiring Tuesday, sends the following important news:

"Viceroy Tak Su today published the following mandate: An important imperial decree was issued on the 23rd day of the 6th moon. It says: We have lost Tien-Tsin and great precautions are taken in Peking. No peace can be obtained without going through a war. In the time of Chung an agreement was made that no murder could be inflicted upon ministers from abroad. It is a month since the assassination of the minister of Germany by the Boxers, and strict orders have been given for the arrest of the murderers. We are trying our utmost to preserve the lives of the other ministers and they are still at Peking. We fear that the viceroys and governors may misunderstand the intention of the decree relying upon the safety of the ministers as a ground for making peace and taking no heed whatever to prepare for attack and defence. The neglect to fortify the districts under their jurisdiction will bring endless calamity. Viceroys and governors are to pay all attention to and urge on preparations for coast attack and defence and they are to take the consequences in case of any territory being lost entirely through their delay and mismanagement."

"The Europeans here understand thoroughly the last part of the edict, which means that the viceroys and governors are commanded by the Empress Dowager to prepare for a Chinese war against the allied powers. Viceroy Tak Su is bitterly anti-foreign and he is increasing his army and armaments, military and marine. He has lodged and objection through the perfect of Kwang Chou to four small gun-boats, two French, one American and one British that are here to safeguard the lives of foreigners, and he asks that they be moved beyond the bogue forts."

"His plan will be unmasked shortly after the allied powers ascertain definitely the facts concerning the massacre at Peking. Chinese gun-boats infest the channel at the back of the Shamen and 18 Chinese gun-boats lie waiting orders below the imperial government wharf. The Cantonese are daily becoming more hostile and the situation is critical. Business is almost at a standstill, and leprosy and plague claim fresh victims daily."

With this accumulation of evidence of an impending big struggle comes also the news of disagreements between the powers and the foreign commanders which threaten to hamper united action and to encourage Chinese resistance. A conference of the admirals at Taku, called to settle the question regarding the management of the restored railway, decided in favor of Russian control, only the British and American admirals dissenting.

Blacksmiths Still Hammer Out Deadly Bolos.

HOW THE FORGE IS MADE

Process of Securing the Sharp Edge—The Size and Prices of the Bolo—The Filipino of Mindanao and His Skill—The Demure Young Lady.

(Philippine Correspondent.)

One of the curiosities of life among the Moros is the little blacksmith shop that forms an important adjunct to every town of importance. The shop is usually one large room, in one corner of which is the forge. The forge is made on the ground and in it blazes a fire made of bamboo charcoal. In order to keep the fire hot the smith makes use of a most novel pair of bellows. Two large, upright sections of bamboo are equipped with plungers like those of a pump, and a native, sitting at the top of the tubes, alternately works the plungers up and down, producing exactly the same blow effect as the ordinary bellows of an American shop.

The anvils are arranged on the dirt floor near the forge. They are the pieces of iron, resembling immense railroad spikes. In front of these sit the blacksmiths. The workers assume that popular position so common among Orientals at all times, and they hammer away with their little hammers for dear life. They wear no clothes, save the breech cloth, and, unlike the village blacksmith, seem to take their task with great seriousness.

From all sorts of old steel he fashions the deadly "bolo"—the universal weapon of the country. With infinite patience he hammers away until the rusty old metal has been called into life, and a shiny, wicked blade has succeeded it.

So skilled are the blacksmiths in this work that many of their weapons present designs that would do credit to makers who had the very best equipped shops. It was surprising, for instance, to learn that the peculiar, snakey shape of the finer blades was made by beating the edge of the hot metal with the round handle of an old Remington rod bayonet.

A great many of these weapons are being purchased and sent back to the States. They promise to be quite a fad with relic hunters. They vary in size, and the price ranges from 50 cents up to $15 each.

The Filipino of Mindanao is mild-mannered, exhibits some skill in the arts, a keen ear for music, and what may be considered an aspiration to get on in the world. In his home are his family, to whom he is devoted. They live in harmony. He does not drink or gamble, and his wife and daughter do not go astray. Nor does he patronize the gaming table. Even the cock pit does not flourish. He is a church man, though and through. However, he has no church to attend and is making no effort to provide one. The cathedral and monastery are occupied by soldiers, because they are centrally located.

The Filipinos furnish the mechanics and most of the labor. Already they have engaged in a sort of strike for higher wages, since the advent of the Americans. The Provost Marshal's "policemen" are Filipinos. So is the captain of the port's crew. They are uniformed in khaki, with red facings.

The Filipinos of Mindanao are not in sympathy with the Tagalogs and Aguilanos. They detest the Tagalogs. Nor are they warlike. True, they fought the Moros because they had to, and the Spaniards to get rid of their tyranny. They are delighted with the Americans. Quick to imitate, they are doing their utmost to copy American manners. They speak the purest Spanish heard in the Philippines, but they are eager to learn English. Both men and women dress with taste. There is nothing gaudy in their attire. The women wear laces and plaids, the men prefer white duck. The Filipinos in Zamboanga, before the recent revolution, supported schools for both girls and boys. The schoolhouse is a wreck. They express a wish to rebuild it and to re-establish the school. The children are bright. They are quick to learn. They whistle all the army calls and the tunes played by the regimental band with remarkable accuracy. Two little fellows, 7 or 8 years old, have been taught the manual of arms and the firings by the soldiers. Their exhibition is as faultless as entertaining, while their commands, in English, are as correct as extraordinary for juveniles of their tender age. The Filipino young lady is not a beauty or a coquette. She is demure and plain. She does not smoke cigars as her sister in Luzon does occasionally. She appears in the streets puffing and inhaling a cigarette. The habit is far from being universal.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

Gleanings and Gossip From an Occasional Contributor.

(Washington Correspondence.)

A practical upholder of the civil service idea who is recognized as a consistent reformer of national reputation and who has done as much as any other man to make practice result of the advantage of theory, says seriously: "We have eliminated the operation of the spoils system in the departments, it is true, and have gone about as far as we can go in that respect. But it appears that we have neutralized proper and legitimate interest of government employees in the government. I was away from Washington shortly after one of the most sensational periods of the war with Spain. A friend said to me: 'I suppose there is a great deal of excitement in Washington?' 'No,' I told him, 'there probably isn't a place of 5,000 people in the United States where there is not more war feeling than in Washington.' I believe I told the truth. The absence of patriotism, such as was shown in the rest of the country, was painful to me. I can't help feeling that in removing political influence from department life we have lowered the standard of patriotism."

"I am told that the proportion of government employees who offered their services as soldiers was very small, and that most of the recruiting in the district came from young men who were not in government service. I know it to be a fact that as a rule government employees shirk their political duties. Heads of divisions tell me how common it is for a clerk to put in an application for the legal leave of absence to go home and vote, and then come personally and ask that the request be not granted, explaining that he had rather not go to the expense of the trip home. My impression is that never before did such a small proportion of government employees exercise that great American right of suffrage. And it appears that with the lessening interest in politics the sentiment of patriotism weakens. I would not go backward to the spoils system, but I have been thinking that if government employees could be allowed to vote here and have their ballots forwarded to their respective states and counted as was done during the civil war, the influence upon these people would be good. It would check the present tendency toward indifference in matters of country, and help to restore to these people the rapidly decreasing spirit of patriotism. I believe that political parties are good for the country. I don't know any class of people who are so devoid of political sentiment, and that which is closely akin, patriotism, as the government clerks of the present time."

There are skeletons in the pigeon holes of the Pension Bureau, skeletons as ghastly as ever took up habitation in a family closet. The specialist who makes divorce getting his business does not receive more shocking revelations than does the pension official through whose hands pass the result of investigations of claims. A case from St. Louis, now under consideration, fairly illustrates hundreds of domestic complications which come under the observation of these officers. Soon after the civil war a soldier who had married in the vicinity of St. Louis, died. His widow applied for a pension and got it. But while the claim was pending a courtship was also under way. The second marriage took place just before the allowance of the pension. It stopped further payments, and all that the woman received was the amount due from the death of the soldier husband to the re-marriage. With her second husband the woman lived twelve years. Then a separation took place. The woman went to Denver, became acquainted with a soldier and lived with him as his wife about ten years, or until his death.

Remembering her experience with the first husband, the woman presented a claim for a pension on account of the second soldier or third man with whom she had sustained marital relations. After a careful investigation of all of the facts, the Pension Office refused this claim, on the ground that there had been no marriage to the second soldier. Thereupon the woman entered claim for the restoration of the old pension granted to her on account of her first husband, and stopped by the second marriage. To make her case she frankly admitted that she had not been married to the third man. She next proceeded to get rid of the bar created by her second marriage. She declared it was illegal. To establish this she set forth that the second husband had living at the time of the marriage another wife, from whom he had not been divorced. Investigation showed that this was strictly true. The second husband after the separation from this second wife, had become reunited with his first wife. The examiner found the two living together in St. Louis, and learned that they were highly respectable people. This strange case is still under consideration by the Pension Commissioner.

The regular use of this standard English preparation will keep you in good health and will prevent or cure Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Bileousness or Constipation and all similar ills.

Abbey's is Nature's remedy—because it is made from the salts extracted from the juices of fresh fruits. Unlike violent remedies, it doesn't knock out your system or deplete the vital organs. WOMEN ARGONAUTS.

THE FAIR SEX CONTRACTS THE THIRST FOR GOLD.

Bravely Dare the Dangers and Undergo the Hardships Which Fall to the Lot of the Miner—The Luck of a California School Marm.

The news comes that Miss Jennie Hilton has again followed the deceitful beckonings of fortune to a valuable gold mine in the new gold fields in California. She is more familiar with mines and mining than any other woman in the Union and possibly in the world. The local newspapers and all the men who are versed in mining properties at Randsburg says she has found ledges that will easily sell for many thousands of dollars or will yield her a small fortune for years. Seven years ago she was the teacher in a little district school at Spadra, in Los Angeles county, California, at $50 a month. Last year she sold a gold mine in the Harqua Hala region, along the Colorado river, for $27,000 cash down, and now she is at work on the richest gold find of her life. It seems that she went out on the desert with her brother from Bakersfield last January, when the rush of excited miners to the new diggings was on, but soon gave up all hope of actually studying the mineral resources of the district in such a region and period of excitement. She was sure, however, there were gold prospects there that time and patient search only would reveal. So when the excitement had subsided and hundreds of eager, restless men had gone away from Randsburg, declaring the district was overrated, she went there again with her brother. That was last March. She and her brother lived in a tent. She kept her own counsel, and with her brother as a companion spent every teacher and a newspaper woman. She is Mrs. L. C. Howland, who was originally a Boston girl, but who has been living for several years in San Francisco. Mrs. Howland expects to teach school at Dawson City, while her husband manages one of the river steamers. She is taking a library, including a complete outfit of the latest text books for children. She said before sailing:

"I am going to Klondike to open a school and teach the children who are unfortunate enough to live in Dawson City something besides the way to cook beans with a quantity of fat and to pan gravel. There are at least forty children of school age in Dawson, so I have been told by Mr. Walker, who recently arrived in San Francisco from the Klondike, and I believe the opening for a school is very good."

"I have made arrangements for building a log school house of sufficient size. It will be seated with benches, and have that necessity, a blackboard. My supply of text books is large, and includes not only the commoner branches, but higher ones as well, for during the winter months I expect to have a number of more advanced pupils from among the miners and others whose early education has been neglected."

"My library is quite extensive, chiefly of standard works of science, history, Hawthorne's and Sir Walter Scott's works, Charles Lamb's essays and other books that I think will interest and educate miners."

"I will charge just as much for tuition as I can get, but that will depend on the condition of affairs in Dawson. If my school plan doesn't work, I have others."

Other women who went north on the same boat are Mrs. W. Place, of San Francisco; Mrs. P. Lauritzen, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Gerald Rooney, and Mrs. Alice Livingstone, both of New York. All these women are accompanied by their husbands and expect to mine for gold. The women spent more than a thousand dollars in Seattle for furs and other things.

Does She Exist?

Here is a man's idea of a modern girl, but he has not announced as yet whether he has found her.

She must be able to converse on other subjects than balls, toilets and frivolities.

Without posing as an intellectual girl, she must be able to read a serious book without finding it "dry."

She must be able to keep her own garments, and, perhaps, the family's, in perfect order.

She must be thoroughly acquainted with housekeeping, and have at heart the health and happiness of those around her.

She must be neither a blue stocking nor an ignorant drudge.

She must be well educated, able to speak and write her language correctly, and enjoy refined society.

She must be perfectly well bred, but not affected; amiable, but not forward.

She must be enthusiastic, impulsive and earnest without being bold, reckless or extravagant.

She must be frank, generous to a fault, high-minded, ambitious within the bounds of reason, and virtuous without insipidity.

She must be affectionate, unselfish and self-respecting.

In short—I do not expect her to be faultless—but she must make a place for herself in the world, and do her best to fill it honorably.

This is the list of "musts" set down by this exacting specimen of mankind; and a certain feminine critic would like to add that, when he has found this model girl, he must not presume to claim her friendship unless he, on his part, can show a corresponding number of virtues.

MISS JENNIE HILTON.

hour of daylight, Sundays and all, in prospecting all over that region. Many people at Randsburg thought her long and earnest search was but a fool's errand, and were surprised when she did not abandon the prospecting at the end of the first week. Old-time miners say she is a very close observer and has infinite patience in examining every minute indication of gold-bearing rock. She made five claims and abandoned three. The best claim was made early in June, and now that work has gone so far as to reveal the ledges beneath the adobe soil and the yellow desert sand, it is seen she has some free milling ore that assays at $280 a ton, and a great body of rock that runs from $50 to $70 a ton.

While Miss Hilton is reaping the reward of her pertinacity at the home gold fields, other women are rushing to the new mines in Alaska, hoping to duplicate her good fortune. One of the most interesting of the women passengers who have recently sailed from San Francisco for the Klondike region is a Harvard Annex graduate of the class of 1898. She is a school

"There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., by her doctor after vainly trying to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. He didn't count on the marvellous power of Electric Bitters to cure stomach and liver troubles, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholly cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feels better than ever. BOER TACTICS.

Why the English Lost Heavily at the Beginning of the War.

(South African Correspondence.)

The cause of the heavy loss of the British soldiers at the beginning of the war is just becoming understood in this country. The Boer outposts consist of a single line of men. When the enemy advances their endeavor is to let the advanced detachments get through, to shoot them down from close quarters, and then to fire at the main body as long as the return fire does not become too heavy.

The giving up of a position is so cleverly carried out that the enemy only notices it later. Every fold in the ground is utilized. The stony ground leaves no traces. The place of rendezvous, which is known beforehand, is often miles away, never in a straight line back, but always sideways, and clever ambushes are laid for pursuers. The laying of ambushes, the choice of suitable defensive and offensive positions, is one of their great fortes. The Boer will never occupy a prominent kopje, a spot which most attracts the eye, but will settle himself next to it, and in such a way that nothing of him is to be seen. His so-called trenches, reckoned to hold three to eight men, are circular, and four to ten paces in diameter. They are mostly nothing but piled up walls of stone, half a man's height. These trenches often lie unoccupied at spots toward which it is desired to attract the fire of the enemy, while the Boers themselves are at quite a different spot—preferably at the end of defiles which enable them to fire at an advancing enemy and then to return unseen and protected against the enemy's rifle. Continuous lines of fortifications, in the place of separate trenches, are an exception. The appearance of a hat is no proof that a rifleman is there. With such methods the better the Boer's rifle the greater his advantage, hence the great losses of the English at the beginning of every fight, which very often also means the end.

Trials of a Bride.

The Kansas City Star says that a woman who was traveling alone not long ago wandered one evening into a hotel parlor. A pretty young girl at once rushed toward her and breathlessly asked her what time it was. Somewhat astonished, the woman glanced at the big mantel clock and repeated the hour. "Oh, thank you," said the stranger, "without any signs of going away. I suppose you think it queer my asking that," she burst out a moment later, "but, to tell the truth, I don't want to know the time at all; I just had to speak to somebody. You see, I'm on my wedding trip, and for a whole week I haven't spoken to a soul but my husband. Why, I've hardly heard the sound of any one's voice but his. It was really a question of my speaking to some one or going wild."

The soubrette is often as good a kicker at the boarding house as she is on the stage.
